JAPAN'S TROOPS ON THE MOVE THREATEN CHARHAR FRONTIERS

CHINESE LAY PLANS FOR DEFENCE

A Japanese army corps, supported by a strong fighting force of aircraft, is moving into western Jehol, in an effort to drive the Chinese troops under the Charhar command out of territory which the Japanese claim is beyond Nanking jurisdiction.

Meanwhile, in Peking, Chinese authorities are laying plans for the defence of Chinese territory. They have learned that a Japanese flying force is concentrated at Changteh. General Ching Teh-chun has been sent from Peking into Charhar to take charge of the defence of that province.

In Shanghai there is some apprehension as to the state of affairs in the farther north, and the market reacted in consequence. The dollar showed signs of strengthening.

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, January 19, 1935 a.m.)

Hankow, Jan. 19.
Kwantung Army Headquarters has announced that one army corps, supported by a force of aircraft, will move into action in western Jehol against the troops of the Charhar provincial commander, General Sung Cheh-yuan.

The Japanese are commencing a drive immediately to push the Charhar forces out of the Tatan area.

First word of the intended campaign was given out yesterday, following a heavy concentration of Japanese units under direction of the Jehol City command.—United Press.

DEFENCE PLANS

Peking, Jan. 19.
It is reported here on good authority that Japanese infantry battalions have left Changteh en route for Tatan and Tachin in Western Jehol.

Many aeroplanes are concentrating near Changteh. General Sung Cheh-yuan, the Charhar commander, is at present here conferring with General Ho Ying-ching, the Chairman of the Military Council and Minister for War.

General Ho Ying-ching has sent General Ching Teh-chun into Charhar to direct the defence of that territory.

General Huang Fu, Chairman of the Peking Political Council, remains in Peking, having delayed his scheduled departure for Nanking.—United Press.

WATCHING

Peking, Jan. 19.
Regarding the Japanese information that Japanese troops in Jehol are mobilising in readiness to compel the Chinese troops to evacuate the western border districts of Jehol, a Chinese press version of the real intention of the Japanese Command is that it will make Chinese garrison troops in the Charhar border districts withdraw to the west of Kuang.

General Sung Cheh-yuan, Military Governor of Charhar, who is at present here, is in conference with General Ho Ying-ching, Chairman of the Peking Military Council, to consider appropriate steps to deal with the situation.

In a statement to the press, General Sung Cheh-yuan declared that the situation did not necessarily call for any alarm. He added that Colonel Takahashi, Military Attaché of the Japanese Legation, had once called on him and discussed the Jehol-Charhar border problem. Chinese troops had never crossed the Jehol border despite the contrary assertion from the Japanese, he said.

LATER REPORTS

According to the latest report from Jehol, considerable Japanese military movements are evident in the western part of Jehol. The Japanese garrison troops at Dolonur have been increased.

LINDBERGH MAY FLY PACIFIC

WON'T DENY REPORT

BUT COMPANY
SILENT

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, January 19, 1935 a.m.)

Flemington, Jan. 18.

Colonel Charles Lindbergh, grimly silent under the questions of reporters during the progress of the trial of Bruno Hauptmann, who is charged with kidnapping and murdering the Lindbergh baby, refused to admit today that he intends to make a test flight across the Pacific to blaze the way for a trans-ocean air mail route.

However, he would not deny that he was considering such an adventure.

It has been freely rumoured that Colonel Lindbergh would hop off from San Francisco or Los Angeles some time in the Spring of 1935, and make his way to Hawaii, and thence to China, probably by way of the Philippine Islands.

In New York, simultaneously, the officers of the Pan-American Airways were asked what they planned in the way of Pacific test flights this year. They admitted that there were schemes under consideration and that in all probability these would be inaugurated shortly.

But whether Colonel Lindbergh would fly the first test machine over the Pacific, the Pan-American Airways said they knew nothing of such a possibility.—United Press.

WITNESS CALLED "LIAR"

MRS. HAUPTMANN
BREAKS DOWN

NEIGHBOUR'S EVIDENCE

(Special to "Telegraph")

(By Telegraph, Copyright, Telegraphic Messages Ordinance, 1931. Received, January 19, 1935 a.m.)

Flemington, Jan. 18.

For the first time since the trial of Bruno Hauptmann started, Mrs. Hauptmann, wife of the man who is accused of murdering the baby-son of Colonel and Mrs. Charles Lindbergh, broke down in the court today.

Her outburst, during the evidence of a neighbour from the Bronx, was surprising. Hauptmann retained his usual composure.

Mrs. Ella Achenbach had testified that two days after the kidnapping of the Lindbergh child Hauptmann had appeared with a sprained ankle. He limped about.

She added that immediately after the kidnapping Mrs. Hauptmann had visited her and had said her husband, Bruno, "had just returned from a trip."

At this point Mrs. Hauptmann rose in a white fury, shouting: "You are lying!"

The judge reprimanded Mrs. Hauptmann.—United Press.

League Still Responsible For Refugees

FRANCE ISSUES
MEMORANDUM

MUST PAY FOR RE-SETTLEMENT

Geneva, Jan. 18.

A French memorandum issued today regarding the Saar refugees, holds the League of Nations morally responsible for the safety of those whom the League's Governing Commission has had under its care for the past fifteen years.

The French Government is going to ask the League to defray the cost of their removal from the Saar and their re-settlement elsewhere.

The memorandum suggests that this question placed upon the agenda for the next session of the League Council.

Meanwhile, the Council has decided to evacuate the international Saar forces, sent into the territory to guard against violence before and after the plebiscite, commencing February 1.

The Italian troops will leave first and the British probably last.—Reuter.

Border Dispute Shelved

LEAGUE DELAYS ITS DECISION

RELATIONS NOW
EASIER

Geneva, Jan. 18.

The question of procedure of the League of Nations Council respecting the Italo-Abyssinian and the Iraqi-Persian frontier quarrels has been agreed upon, it was announced today, and there is every hope that the problems will be settled without a recrudescence of the violence which characterised the earlier stages of the disputes.

Both these matters will be adjourned, however, to enable the Council to conclude its present session to-morrow. The Saar plebiscite decision has taken up most of the time of the Council lately.

The Council considers that the frontier questions may very well be left in abeyance and that an amicable arrangement may be made possible before the Council is called (Continued on Page 9.)

(Special to "Telegraph")

Shanghai, Jan. 19.
Following the arrival here during the last few days, of shipments of silver from Hongkong, which have been given wide publicity in an effort to restore confidence locally, it is learnt today that Shanghai Banks' reserves have actually been reduced by Sh$300,000 on account of the withdrawal yesterday of Sh$1,300,000 which has either been transported to the interior, or is being hoarded locally.—United Press.

SHANGHAI MARKET

Shanghai, Jan. 19.
The Foreign Exchange Market is dull and steady here at 9.30 a.m. with an inclination to firmness due apparently to the threatening Charhar situation.

Apprehension regarding the Charhar situation is especially influencing the Gold Bar Exchange.—United Press.

WALL ST. REMAINS STEADY

AUTHORITIES OPTIMISTIC

VERY DULL

(Special to "Telegraph")

New York, Jan. 18.
There was a quiet session on Wall Street today, although the undertone of the market was firm.

Bonds were quietly upward. The U. S. Dollar eased slightly due to the fact that Bankers are arranging gold imports.

Members of the Stock Exchange here today expressed the opinion that they do not expect a decision on the "gold clause" case to be announced before February 4, and for this reason they anticipate that the lassitude on Wall Street will continue, at least until the decision is made known.

Wall Street brokers also assert that they do not believe that President Roosevelt's Security Programme will unduly increase taxation, pointing out that the programme is largely self-supporting.

PRICES AFFECTED

Messrs. Dun and Bradstreet state that the only effect of the Gold Cause uncertainty has been to weaken some commodity prices, and that the making of long term commitments should be held in abeyance.—United Press.

STRICT SECRECY
MAINTAINED

Singapore, Jan. 19.
It is understood that Mount Faber, one of the highest points of the island, will be closed to the public during the erection of military defence works shortly. The area will be re-opened after the defence works have been completed, however.—Reuter.

NATIONAL GOVT'S OPEN MIND

WILL PERUSE LLOYD GEORGE PLAN

LACKS NOVELTY AND PRECISION

The first intimation of the British Government's attitude to Mr. Lloyd George's "New Deal" plan was forthcoming yesterday, when Mr. Neville Chamberlain made a guarded reference to the scheme.

Mr. Chamberlain said the proposals were lacking in novelty and precision, but he indicated that the Government would examine them with an open mind.

Meanwhile, Lord Lee of Farnham has indicated his support of Mr. Lloyd George's plea for closer Anglo-American co-operation with a view to safeguarding world peace.

London, July 18.

Referring to proposals advanced by Mr. David Lloyd George, in outlining his suggested plans to stimulate recovery in Britain, the Chancellor of the Exchequer, Mr. Neville Chamberlain, at Belfast this afternoon, said he found them rather disappointingly lacking in novelty or precision.

Nevertheless, when Mr. Lloyd George had completed his exposition of them in his platform campaign, the Government, which was not above taking ideas that promised help in solving present day problems, would examine them with an open mind.

Before embodying them in their programme, however, the Government must be satisfied that they would achieve the purpose for which they were designed.

NO SHORT CUT

Meanwhile, he urged the people not to be depressed by difficulties still ahead of them. There was no short cut to prosperity and Britain had gone forward more quickly than any other nation.

In a brief reference to the international situation, he said that as Chancellor he was interested in economy, but it would be foolish economy to shrink expenditure which had now become overdue, owing to the fact that Britain, in proof of her desire to maintain peace had reduced her defences to a danger point in the hope that other countries would follow her example.—British Wireless.

The maximum dividend will be six per cent.
The bank will be prohibited from lending to the Government on current account or making advances exceeding ten per cent. of the average budgetary receipts.—Reuter Special.

You may not be favored with a charming nose like Joan Crawford's. You may not have her eyes. But you've got something. Everyone is born with a certain accented feature and it's by making the most of it that you become attractive and distinctive.

Do you think, for instance, that Joan admired her really wide shoulders? She did not. She used to wear her sleeves set extra high to make her shoulders seem narrower and many a time I used to tease her about the thickness with which she applied her foundation cream. "But Mr. Factor," she'd protest, "I've got to hide those freckles!"

To-day she has learned that by emphasizing the width of her shoulders, her body assumes more graceful proportions.

Only yesterday a letter came from one of you that made me happier than I can say. A young girl wrote: "You've given me the chance through your articles of finding myself! Oh, Mr. Factor, I can't begin to tell you how hopeless I was about my appearance. Everything seemed wrong—my hair, eyes, figure. But when I read what you had to say it gave me new courage. Do you know what that means to a helpless wallflower like I was? I cut out your articles and began experimenting with my looks according to the directions. I took one feature at a time, beginning with my eyes, and practiced making them up until they were as near perfect as I could get. It wasn't long before I was a 'changed' person! Even my young brother wanted to know what I'd done to get my 'looks'..."

Innocent Man Nearly Hanged

NOOSE SLIPPED OVER HEAD

REAL MURDERER CONFESSES

Purvis, Mississippi, Jan. 18. The only man legally hanged in Mississippi who lived to tell the story has decided to go on a tour and describe how he almost paid the supreme penalty for a murder he did not commit.

Only the real old timers remember the case of Will Purvis, who was tried, convicted, and sentenced to death at Columbia 40 years ago. It was a dark night in the early part of 1894 that the victim, said to have been a man who testified before the Marion County Grand Jury regarding the activities of an organization known as the "White Caps," was ambushed and shot from his wagon as he rode through a wooded section north of Columbia.

Bloodhounds were put on the trail, which led to the East bank of Pearl River, where someone apparently had entered a boat. The officers on the hunt took the hounds across the stream and picked up a trail near the East side boat landing.

The hounds went straight to the Purvis home. Mr. Purvis was arrested and spirited away, as feeling ran high against him.

Indictment, trial, and conviction followed. Mr. Purvis protested his innocence and offered an alibi proving that he was not in the vicinity of the crime.

In those days Mississippi hangings were public. On execution day a huge crowd jammed the streets about the Columbia courthouse. The scaffold had been erected on the lawn.

Mr. Purvis was brought out of gaol and marched up the gallows, still shouting his innocence.

The death warrant was read. The minister prayed. The black hood was placed over the condemned man's head. His arms and legs were tied and the noose adjusted about his neck.

For a tense moment all was still. The crowd stood breathlessly. The sheriff took a steady grip on the lever. A quick jerk and Mr. Purvis was hurled through the trap. Spectators gasped and shut their eyes for a moment, expecting to view a corpse dangling at the end of a rope when they were reopened.

What they saw was the end of a rope hanging through the trap. The noose had slipped. Mr. Purvis lay on the ground gasping.

CROWD OBJECTS

The sheriff started to put Mr. Purvis on the gallows again but spectators objected. A man cannot be punished twice for the same offence, they shouted. So Mr. Purvis was put back in gaol until a ruling could be obtained from the governor's office.

Meanwhile Mr. Purvis escaped and remained at large several months, during which time Governor Stone's term expired and Governor Anne McLaurin went into office.

Friends of the fugitive went to Governor McLaurin and offered to produce him in return for a commutation of sentence for life imprisonment. This, they said, would enable them to continue their efforts to find the real murderer.

The governor agreed and Mr. Purvis went to the penitentiary, where he stayed for several years. Finally the man who actually committed the crime made a death-bed confession.

There followed freedom for Mr. Purvis. The Mississippi legislature voted him a substantial sum of money in return for his unjust punishment.

Mr. Purvis settled on a farm near this town, which bears his family name.—United Press.

USEFUL HINTS

Bows appear on four out of every six smart day dresses, and are frequently a continuation of the collar. Slate blue crepe flecked with grey was used for this frock, which has lapels and a wide, flat bow of deep blue satin.

BATH ROBES

THE bath robe is a source of comfort on chilly mornings, and should be placed conveniently near the bed. Bath robes should be gone over occasionally with a view to repairing torn pockets and replacing lost buttons or fasteners. As soon as they show signs of dirt they should be washed carefully to keep the wool soft and fluffy. Immerse the garment in a tub of lukewarm soapsuds. As soon as the soap-suds become dirty, replace them with clean water and fresh suds. Throughout the washing process keep the water an even temperature and take care not to twist the robe, or the material is likely to shrink and warp. Hang the bath robe on wooden hangers to dry, as clothes-pegs are likely to pull them out of shape. A warm room or a warm sunny day out of doors is best for drying, and, furthermore, it should not be exposed to great heat during the drying process.

MYSTERIOUS PLANE CRASHES

No explanation has been found for the mystery of two aeroplane struts, which were washed ashore during a gale at Steep Hill Cove, near Ventnor, Isle of Wight, recently.

An official of the Air Ministry said: "We know of no aeroplane missing in that part, and the numbers do not correspond with any machine of which we have knowledge."

Is this the wreckage of some craft from Russia, lost in the North Sea? No-one knows.

U.S. ACTORS TO TOUR IN RUSSIA

TOM MIX WILL SIGN CONTRACT

POPULAR WITH CHILDREN

New York, Jan. 16. The Soviet Union is bidding for American stage talent to the extent that theatrical unemployment may be greatly reduced.

Tom Mix, cowboy motion picture star, may be the stellar member of a group of actors being recruited by Amsov, a special Soviet bureau. Thirty actors already have been signed. First contracts run for three months, but it was expected that eventually they would be extended to two years.

Mr. Alexander Basy, director of Amsov, said the Soviet wanted to employ American actors to demonstrate to the world that his country is not lacking in the scope and quality of the entertainment it provides for its people. Only "dumb" acts, such as circuses, rodeos, bands, comedians and interpretive dancers are sought as language would be a barrier to speaking entertainment.

In 32 of Moscow's 72 theatres Mr. Basy expects to book Americans. One performance a day will be staged, unlike the "four" and "five" a day in American show houses. Actors will be paid 1,000 rubles a month and will have one day off a month.

The actors' transportation will be paid by the Soviet government and they will be housed at the expense of the state in the finest accommodations available, according to Mr. Basy. Special privileges regarding food also will be extended.

Mr. Basy, who is a former manager of the Russian grand opera, said he had communicated with Mix and that the cowboy star was available for work in a few weeks. Mix is a favorite with Russian children as well as Americans. His horse, Tony, also is popular.

The first contingent of American actors is expected to sail for Leningrad soon. The artists' bureau in the RKO Building, Rockefeller centre, is co-operating with Amsov in booking talent.—United Press.

OLD ENEMIES MAKE FRIENDS

TWO WHO FOUGHT IN FRANCE

Dallas, Tex., Jan. 19. An American and a German who did their best to kill each other in a French village during the World War, rode side by side in an American airplane.

They were Herr G. A. Struve, secretary of the German Embassy in Washington, and Major Patrick J. Hurley, former Secretary of War. In 1917 Major Hurley was leading a detachment of American soldiers in an attack against a detachment of the Eighteenth German Hussars who held the village of Chateau Louppy. Herr Struve was commander of the German detachment.

Herr Struve was the last to leave the village as his troops retired. Major Hurley was the first to enter.

The two met face to face. Major Hurley demanded immediate surrender. The German threw a hand grenade which wounded the American slightly. Maj. Hurley fired his automatic and slightly wounded Herr Struve as he retired. To-day they breakfast together in Dallas.

Herr Struve is travelling with Dr. Hans Luther, German Ambassador to the United States who is making a tour of all German Consulates. Major Hurley was en route from Glendale, California, to Tulsa, Oklahoma.—United Press.

ADVENTURE IN GLASS MAKING

ENORMOUS TELESCOPE

Corning, N.Y., Jan. 15.
Night and day the great furnace is bright in the white hot glow of a battery of blast torches.
Within, red hot molten glass glowing like a volcanic lake, grows deeper. Four hundred pounds of raw material are thrown into the fiery mass hourly. Attendants hover about silently, watching indicators and checking temperatures. They are protected by strange clothing which gives them the appearance of creatures of another world.

It is the beginning of another venture in glassmaking—oldest of the arts of fire.
The little town of Corning is alive to the fact that a new 200-inch disc, twin to the one cast here last March, will be poured early next month, at the Corning glass works. It is to be installed in the world's largest telescope on the top of Mt. Palomar, in Southern California. It will weigh 20 tons and will be ground and polished to an accuracy of a millionth of an inch at the California Institute of Technology.

It took 10 days to heat the tank furnace, about the size of a room of 30 feet square, before the glass making ingredients could be poured in through the "dog house," the name given the loading port.

The 400 pound charges of such materials as sand, alkali and borax will be continued hourly for 24 days. Then the mass will be observed and conditioned until it appears by test to be just the right condition to be poured.

Three lulling creys will go into action. Face shields and asbestos aprons will protect them.

The 200-inch disc telescope is expected to speed up the taking of astronomical pictures, it is expected to reach at least three times as far into space as any other apparatus.—

WILL WORLD'S END COME "POP?"

SCIENCE CAN ONLY GUESS ANSWER

By DR. W. H. STEAVENSON,
Former President of the British Astronomical Society.

A nova, or "new" star, is visible to the naked eye.
It represents an explosion within a star.

This explosion occurred 2,000 years ago or more, but is only now apparent to us.

The sun may suffer similar catastrophe—but the danger is remote!

THERE is probably no more exciting event for astronomers than the appearance of a bright "new" star. Such objects, which are now known as "novae," were formerly described as temporary stars, and this gives really a more accurate indication of their nature.

Even so, the term is a little misleading, as it suggests the creation of a body which later ceases to exist. As a matter of fact, what is seen is merely the temporary brightening of a star which existed before, and which continues to shine at about its former brightness after the spectacular display is over.

Many of these temporary outbursts have taken place in historical times. One of the brightest ever recorded occurred in the constellation Cassiopeia in 1572, the nova in this case being about as bright as Venus, and visible to the naked eye in broad daylight.

During the present century there had, up to a few weeks ago, been five novae bright enough to be seen with the naked eye at the time of their discovery. Mr. Prentice's star is therefore the sixth, and its prompt detection is evidence of the close watch that is kept upon the sky, more especially by amateur astronomers. It is significant that many such discoveries have been made, as in the present case, by observers of meteors, or "shooting stars."

In this branch of astronomical research it is essential to work in the open air, and without a telescope. This affords a much more complete view of the constellations than is possible for the observer who works at the eyepiece of a telescope, with his outlook almost completely obscured by the dome of his observatory. This explains why discoveries of this kind are seldom made in the larger observatories, and should be an encouragement to those who imagine that nothing useful can be done in astronomy without the aid of powerful instruments.

WILL WORLD'S END COME "POP"?

occurs with great suddenness and rapidly. With a few exceptions it has been found to occupy less than three days, and during this short space of time the star's light may be augmented anything up to 100,000-fold. But on reaching its maximum this brightness begins almost immediately to fall.

The fading is, however, at a much slower rate than the rise, and is apt to be very irregular. Several years generally elapse before the star returns to its original faint condition.

An examination of the spectra of various novae has shown that rapid and remarkable changes are constantly taking place during the outburst, especially in its early stages, and this is why the astronomers are so keen to lose no time in obtaining spectroscopic photographs, and are prepared to put aside most of their other work in order to do so.

The star discovered by Mr. Prentice has since been found on a photograph taken nearly thirty years ago. It appears on the plate as a very minute object, with no peculiarities to distinguish it from its millions of faint neighbours. Many other novae have been identified in this way after their outbursts, and information is thus obtained as to the amount by which the light has increased. In the present case it is over 100,000 times, and the star is likely to remain visible to the naked eye for several days, and with binoculars for some weeks.

When a nova is on the rise it is always pure white in colour. A few days after its maximum, however, it begins to display a strongly reddish tint. Within a few weeks this redness dies out, and the star, now growing faint, often appears slightly greenish in colour. Finally, when approaching its original lustre, it becomes white again, and so remains.

WHAT IS HAPPENING

The two-fold question naturally arises: (1) What is happening to produce such remarkable effects; and (2) what caused it to happen?

The first part of the question was answered many years ago by the late Professor Bickerton, who pointed out that the sudden rise in brightness, coupled with the character of the spectrum, indicated a violent explosion which projected concentric shells of hydrogen and other gases in all directions from the centre of disturbance. This view is now generally adopted by astronomers, but the same cannot be said of Bickerton's answer to the second part of the question.

He supposed that the explosion took place in a new body, formed by the grazing impact of two previously existing and possibly "dead" stars. It is now considered, however, that in view of the probable number and distribution of the stars in space such an event would be of exceedingly rare occurrence; whereas if we include the comparatively large number of fainter novae recently revealed by photography the phenomenon is much too common to admit of such an explanation.

Other astronomers have suggested that the passage of a star through a nebula might account for the observed facts; but there are serious physical objections to this idea, and it seems, on the whole, most probable that a nova represents a purely spontaneous explosion occurring in a star without the intervention of any outside body.

Why a star should explode suddenly in this way is not quite certain, but the occurrence has been put down to the development of an unstable condition in the interior of a relatively old and compact star. From this cause a rapid collapse of its substance towards its centre might occur at any moment, and the sudden increase of pressure resulting from this would be quite sufficient to cause the explosion observed.

UNPLEASANT DOUBT

It is thought that this may possibly happen to every star at a certain stage of its career; and this naturally leads us to wonder (Continued on Page 10.)

Dear Sirs,
I have been suffering from Rheumatism and Rheumatoid Arthritis for 12 to 14 years. I have taken a course of your 'ASPRO' Tablets—three after each meal—and often, when in pain, have taken an extra dose before going to bed.
I obtained very great relief from this treatment; in fact, I do not know how I could have continued to move about without 'ASPRO'. The pain has gradually improved, and now I find I need to take 'ASPRO' only occasionally. I can confidently recommend 'ASPRO' to all sufferers from rheumatism.

Gay Costumes at the Winter Beaches

Slit skirts for daytime as well as for evening mark the frocks designed for winter wear

AN IDEAL GOLF costume consists of a striped woolen blouse and gray flannel trousers, divided and pleated to look like a skirt. These, you may be sure, are roomy and comfortable.

A DETACHABLE shirt with side slits is worn over the one-piece bathing suit in baby blue, maroon and white stripes pictured above. At a distance, the skirt appears to be shorts.

THE PAREO beach outfit in the center was inspired by the costumes of native Tahitians. It comes in a South Sea Island print—white magnolias on a dark blue cotton background.

THE DEMURE young lady at the upper right is wearing a white silk tennis dress with a divided skirt. Note the flattering collarless neckline and the wide revers.

Costumes Courtesy Macy's, New York.

PANTS are cut so full that they resemble skirts. Skirts are intricately slit to look like pants. It may sound a little confusing, but those are the predominating features of Palm Beach fashions.

The girl who turns southward for a winter holiday will have slits in her daytime dresses as well as in the skirts of afternoon, dinner and evening frocks. Even bathing suits and beach togs are coyly slit.

Pale pink and baby blue are the leading colours. And they'll be featured throughout the spring and summer collections, too, in all probability.

After all, Palm Beach fashions always are indicative of what will be good the following spring.

There's a revival of the beach pyjama-evening gown type of outfit. One particularly flattering creation of pale blue linen in a shantung weave has a cutout back and an ankle-length skirt, slit in back and front on the sides to look like pajamas. It's perfect for evening and can be worn on the beach to good advantage.

REGULAR beach pyjamas have trousers as wide as skirts. The bathing suits are clever little models with brassiere and halter tops, and bottoms that seem to be shorts. They really aren't, however. They are skirts, slit on the sides, and held in place with a piece of attached material patterned after a loin cloth.

In this category are the colourful Tahitian suits in vivid South Sea Island colours. With them one wears equally bright beach coats.

The evening gowns are slenderizing, glamorous and individual. Many have lingerie lace at the neckline. Some are trimmed with plain bone buttons that contrast sharply with the luxurious fabrics.

One evening dress in deep gray taffeta, printed with pink silk roses, has a large grey buckle at the back. Another consists of pinkish gray satin tunic over a chiffon skirt in matching shade.

There are linen gowns, too, and voluminous linen dusters to be worn as evening wraps.

Speaking of wraps, don't miss the new Mandarin coats. Made of printed silk in floral patterns, linen and satin, these are split on the sides, have bell-shaped sleeves and are fastened about the throat by smart little frogs. The loveliest one of all is fashioned from shiny pink slipper satin.

RIGHT, a wonderful dress for any southern resort. It is made of lovely pale pink linen in a shantung weave, with slits which give the effect of slacks.

MR. ANTHONY EDEN'S FUTURE

YOUNG MAN DESTINED FOR BIG THINGS

Capt. Anthony Eden, Lord Privy Seal

By British Central Press

Once again Captain Anthony Eden, lord privy seal and member of parliament, has shown his adept hand in international affairs.

This time he was instrumental in formulating the resolution which ended, for the time being at least, danger of war in the Balkans.

Sir Austen Chamberlain, once British foreign minister, said of Captain Eden, when that young man had been commissioned to make a tour of European capitals in the interests of disarmament: "There is no one to whom I would with more confidence intrust such a mission."

That opinion is held by most members of England's diplomatic corps.

"Antony," as he is called by his colleagues, is a very young man for such a game as international politics. He is but 36 years of age.

Only 17 when war broke out, Eden went to the front in 1916, became a captain and won the Military Cross. Most of the action he saw was on the Near Eastern front where he became interested in Oriental languages.

Back to Oxford after the war, Captain Eden studied languages and took first class honours in the subject.

In 1923 he entered politics and won his Conservative seat for Warwick and Leamington. He has retained it ever since.

His work in the office of Foreign Secretary Sir John Simon first became prominent a few years ago when Sir John initiated him to the rigors and perils of League of Nations debate. Always an expert debater and clever speaker, Eden fell naturally into such a position and when pressure of affairs at home made it impossible for Sir John to leave his post, the young captain took over the full duties.

At the forming of the National government, Eden became parliamentary undersecretary for foreign affairs. It was characteristic of him that he made more of the job than any of his predecessors.

In January of this year, he was appointed lord privy seal, in order, it was announced, to strengthen the political representation of the British foreign office. The post of lord privy seal is an ancient office which, in itself, carries merely nominal duties, but the lord privy seal has often been entrusted with the discharge of important work for which for any special reason requires the attention of a minister

"GESTAPO" DREAD WORD TO ANTI-NAZIS

HITLER'S SECRET AGENTS ACTIVE EVERYWHERE

BY MILTON BRONNER

"Gestapo"—the very name makes Germans shudder. It is the people's term for the Geheim Staats Polizei—the State Secret Police. It is purely a Nazi creation. So secret are its workings that few facts are known about it, but legend is rapidly accumulating. If the stories that seep out of Germany are to be believed, the Gestapo is the most feared of all secret police organizations, and Europe, in its time, has known quite a few.

In the early days of the 19th century, Joseph Fouché was the French Minister of Police until Napoleon dismissed him. It was said that Fouché and his spies heard all, saw all, knew all. At the same time in distant Austria, Napoleon's most steadfast enemy, Prince Metternich, Austrian Chancellor, likewise had a far-flung net of secret police and spies. Under the Russian Czars the Okhrana was dreaded by all the people and today, under the Russian Soviets, the OGPU is a dread name.

RECENT NAZI DEVELOPMENT

The Gestapo is a thing of comparatively recent growth. At first, when Adolf Hitler was not sure as to the reliability of his brown-shirted troopers, the S. A., he formed the S. S., dressed in sombre black and, as that body grew, it was placed in charge of Heinrich Himmler. When the Nazis came to power, Himmler was made prefect of police in Munich. General Goering, head of the Prussian government, formed his Prussian Gestapo. Hitler named Himmler as head of the Gestapo in the other German states. Later, Himmler was promoted to chieftainship of all the Gestapo in the Reich. He then transferred his headquarters from Munich to Berlin. Some of the chief jobs of his thousands of secret police and spies are as follows:

1. To seize all Communist and Socialist literature that is smuggled into Germany by various means and to arrest, if possible, those inside Germany actively concerned in distributing the subversive leaflets and pamphlets.

2. To keep a watch on all persons on the Nazi Black List. These are people suspected of active antagonism to the Hitler regime, or of revealing state or military secrets.

in parliament.

As a politician and a diplomat, Captain Eden is earning a brilliant reputation in European circles. He is described as a patient, imperturbable negotiator, a friendly and informal mixer and a master of European languages.

Of the man himself it is said that his success has not in the least degree turned his head. One of Heinrich Himmler . . . 120 per cent. a Hitler man.

3. Since the blood purge of last June, to keep tab on all Nazi leaders, big and little, lest another web of intrigue against Hitler be woven inside the ranks of his own organization.

Nobody knows who the secret police are. They don't wear uniforms. They seem ordinary citizens. They work under cover. And what makes all Germans shudder is that it is a swift transition from being seized by the secret police to being haled before the so-called "People's Courts," likewise recently instituted by the Nazi regime. These courts try all political and treasonable offences. There are three Senates, each with five judges. Only two on each panel have legal training. The balance are army officers and Nazis. Trials mainly are held in secret and there is no appeal. It is possible, upon the accusations of the secret police, to be swiftly railroaded to the firing squad or the headman's axe.

FEAR TO TALK EVEN IN PUBLIC

It is claimed there is no restaurant, cafe or hotel which is not surveyed by the Gestapo. The microphone is freely used. The Gestapo has a tiny one, easily hidden, and of immense carrying power. It is whispered that all the conversations of persons on the Black List are listened to, even in their homes. Moreover, the conversations are electrically recorded so that the judges—if cases be brought—may have no doubt as to the authenticity of the evidence.

It used to be a common thing for Germans to make a rendezvous in the lounges of the better-known hotels. This rarely takes place any more. For it is hinted that there is a microphone under every table and every chair. It is also claimed that the telephonic conversations of foreign correspondents with their home papers are also heard by the police.

Little, if anything, is ever allowed to be printed in German papers about the activities of the Gestapo. But occasionally some bald announcement reveals its activities. Thus, the other day it was announced a number of people, convicted of espionage for a foreign power, had been condemned to death. Foreign papers were a bit more informative. They told how the secret police arrived one evening while a party was going on in the Berlin home of a Polish nobleman and all there present taken to Gestapo headquarters. Some of them were never seen again.

Another deals with the fate of a workman at an electrical factory at Spandau. These workers are not supposed to reveal to anybody in what department they labour. One day recently a workman's wife came to the gateway of the factory with her husband's lunch basket. To the watchman she explained her man worked in the grenade department. The unfortunate husband was promptly and severely punished for sedition.

EVEN GOERING CAN'T ESCAPE

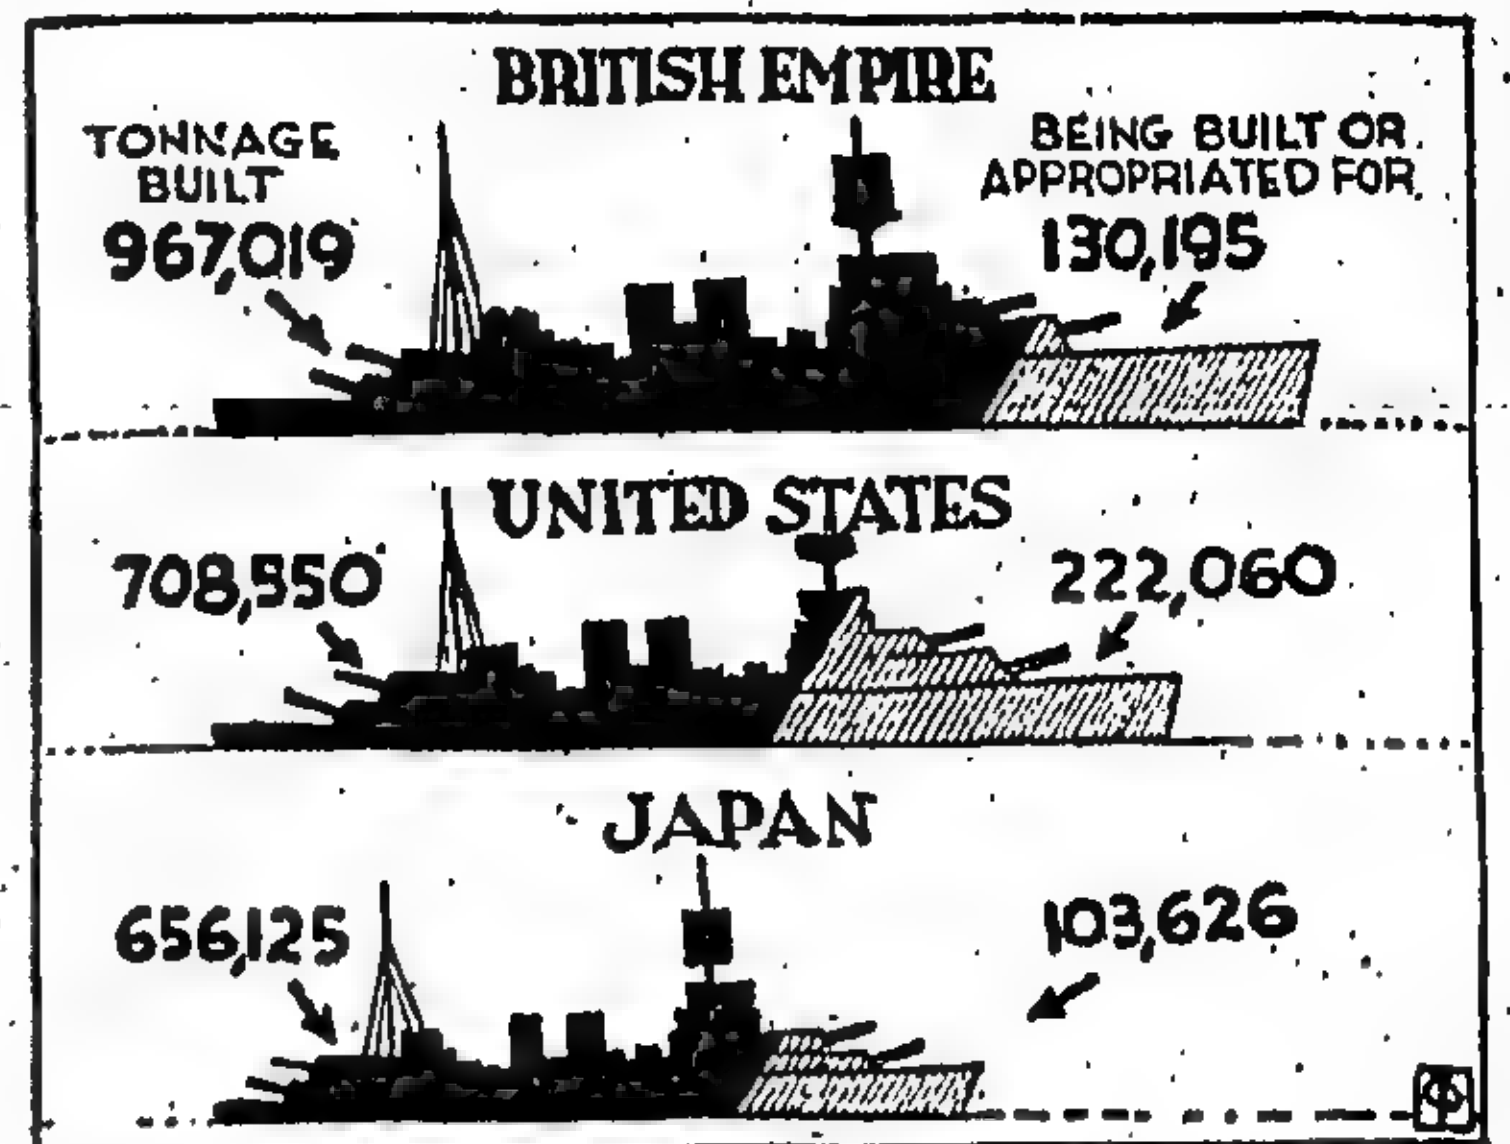

There is a reason for this. The French claim that German munition and aviation factories are working over-time re-arming Germany. There is always a danger that some workman, not a paid spy, may innocently gossip. But the Nazi regime does not consider this as innocence. Such talk is treachery. It is revealing secrets to the enemy. It is punishable by death.

"Maul halten"—shut your mouth—that is the order of the day.

Amid all these grim things, there is one laughable incident which, true or otherwise, has been goossiped about in European papers. It is said that General Goering has bitterly complained that every time he goes out with a pretty woman, his movements are observed by the Gestapo. Whether true or not, it reveals one kernel of fact: Heinrich Himmler is 120 per cent. a Hitler man. He is superloyal to his chief. So he watches everybody. There will be no more Roehm conspiracies if he can help it.

SEA SERPENT STORY

CANADIAN MONSTER PROVES TO BE ONLY A BASKING SHARK

By British Central Press

Prince Rupert, Canada.

Here's the Prince Rupert sea serpent which caused quite a stir in the marine and scientific world until experts finally decided that it was a basking shark, a fish which grows nearly 40 feet in length at times.

Unlike the famous Loch Ness "monster" of Scotland, this "serpent" was once a living creature, not half-submerged wreckage.

Found on the shore of Henry Island, near Prince Rupert, where it had apparently been stranded by low tides behind a rocky barrier, the sea serpent was badly decomposed and its flesh had been largely eaten away by gulls. The 30 foot long vertebrae, pictured above, were intact and huge flippers were attached about five feet below the heart. There were smaller fins near the tail.

The sea serpent was discovered by Hugo Sandstrum, a Prince Rupert fisherman, who was cutting wood on the island and was attracted by the cries of the gulls. He recognized that the discovery was something unusual, to say the least, and summoned Dr. Neal Carter, head of the fisheries experimental station at Prince Rupert.

Dr. Carter supervised removal of the remains to Prince Rupert. The vertebrae were cut into six-foot sections and transported by boat and the creature reassembled on the Prince Rupert dock where it attracted thousands of visitors.

Britain And United States To Operate Eight-Day Round-The-World Air Service

Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith.

Routes Charted For Trans-Oceanic Service

Col. Charles A. Lindbergh

The development of Empire aviation recently has given the necessary impetus to the establishment of a round-the-world air service route—a service which will find Great Britain and the United States working hand in hand. This tremendous new undertaking brings together the world's two greatest air corporations, the Imperial Airways of England, and the Pan-American Airways of the United States. Regular passenger and air mail service is soon to be started from London and New York to the other side of the world, as the map indicates. Two routes have been established, one a northerly passage, across North Atlantic and Canada to the Far East. The other passage, likely to be most used will be via southern Atlantic, across United States and across the southern Pacific. Two of the world's outstanding fliers, Sir Charles Kingsford-Smith, Australian ace, and Col. Charles Lindbergh, have aided in mapping out routes and demonstrating their feasibility. Complications are few, however, in the battle being waged in the Pan-American area for commercial air supremacy. France, Germany, and Italy are struggling with the United States and Great Britain for control of the world's air lines.

Reviewing the Past Year

VIGNETTES OF LIFE

By J. NORMAN LYND

ANGLICAN CHURCH IN KOWLOON TONG.

END OF EXPERIMENTAL NEXT MONTH

Reference to the approach of the end of the experimental period of the Kowloon Tong Anglican Church and the beginning of its full life were made at the annual meeting held last night and presided over by the Rev. N. Y. Halward.

The accounts, presented by Mr. F. C. Clema, and audited by Mr. H. Westlake and Mr. C. Crofton, showed a credit balance of $1,108.58 for the past year. These accounts and a budget, which forecast a deficit of $2,269 for 1935, were approved, the chairman remarking that the estimates did not include a grant from St. Andrew's Church and a possible grant from St. John's Cathedral during this year.

Mr. C. Crofton, Mrs. Hardman, Mr. G. She, Mr. Ashton Hill, Mr. S. Jex, Miss Mow Fung, and Mrs. Scofield were elected to constitute the Church Committee and the last four named were also appointed delegates to the Diocesan Conference.

The chairman in his address said that next month would see the close of the experimental period of eighteen months and the church would then seek its constitution as a separate Parish and electoral roll. It was hoped to obtain the services of the Rev. L. L. Naah of the Diocesan Boys' School during the absence on leave of the present priest, (the speaker) and Mr. George She had already been welcomed as a Diocesan Lady Reader.

The new church site in Waterloo Road had been granted by the Government and this year should witness the beginning of building operations.

The new church's activities had included the Sunday School with 50 children, the Guild of Martha and Mary, the Men's Fellowship, the 12th Kowloon Wolf Cub Pack under Mrs. Easterbrook, and the V.D.M.A. Group, besides purely church functions.

VARIETY CONCERT

IN AID OF HOLY TRINITY CHURCH FUNDS

A variety concert, in aid of the funds of the Holy Trinity Church, Kowloon City, will be held at the Lee Theatre, Causeway Bay, 8 o'clock this evening. The concert is being held under the patronage of Lady Southern, O.B.E., and the chairmanship of the Rt. Rev. Bishop R. O. Hall. The programme promises to be most interesting, for it includes, apart from musical numbers by prominent artists and dramatic sketches by the Fellowship of Youth, an acrobatic display by A. Ma and Company, and magic by the Chinese Magician, Wan Wan San and his Troupe who are passing through Hongkong after fulfilling an engagement at the Chicago World Fair.

Tickets may be purchased at the Tsang Fook Piano Co., Ice House Street, and at the Theatre this evening.

Donations towards the Building Fund may be sent to the Manager of the Underwriters' Savings Bank, Queen's Road Central who has consented to receive on behalf of the Treasurer.

(Special to "Telegraph")

Chicago, Jan. 18. Mr. Rufus C. Dawes, one of the city's most prominent business executives, who since 1927 has been President of the Century of Progress Exposition, to-day said that business was improving through natural causes.

He added that, in his opinion, political action should have no effect on future improvement.—United Press.

COLONEL BIRD IN-CAR ACCIDENT

TRAFFIC "ISLAND" DEMOLISHED

Colonel L. G. Bird, D.S.O., O.B.E., former commandant of the Hongkong Volunteer Defence Corps, had a narrow escape from serious injury last night, when the car he was driving crashed into the traffic "island" opposite Tin Lok Lane in Hennessy Road and completely demolished it.

Despite the fact that the steering wheel was wrenched from his hands and shattered by the force of the impact, and the car itself wrecked beyond hope of repair, Col. Bird escaped with nothing more than a few slight bruises and shock. His Chinese "boy" who was sitting beside him when the accident occurred, was thrown on to the road but escaped serious injury.

The accident occurred at 8.05 p.m., when Col. Bird was driving to his home at Shek O. The car smashed the concrete standards at both ends of the "island" as well as the warning light in the centre.

When the car hit the first standard, which acts as a reflector, the Chinese boy was flung out of his seat on to the road.

The car careered on, uprooting the central light and did not stop until it had passed over the whole length of the "island".

The fact that the boy was thrown on to the roadway probably saved his life, for the lamp in the centre of the "island" crashed through the hood and fell where he had been sitting.

Fortunately, there was no one on the "island" at the time of the accident and there was little traffic in the immediate vicinity.

In a report made to the Wanchai Police Station, Col. Bird said he did not see the red light until the car hit the "island".

An examination of the car revealed that it was a complete wreck. The radiator was crushed into the engine, the hood ripped off and the body badly twisted. It was later towed to Dodwell's garage in Russell Street.

NO HASTY ACTION

London, Jan. 18. The text of the Abyssinian Government's memorandum on the Italo-Abyssinian frontier incidents, which was issued at Geneva to-day, is based on Article 11, Paragraph 2, of the Covenant of the League of Nations, and requests that the matter be placed on the Council agenda.

In pursuance of the British Government's efforts to use their good offices with both sides to mediate the crisis, Mr. Anthony Eden, leading British delegate at the Council meeting, together with M. Laval, had a private meeting with Baron Aloisi to-day.

Geneva press messages state it is hoped that it will at least prove possible to prevent any hasty action, and postponement of consideration of the matter until the next session of the League Council is contemplated.—British Wireless.

PIRATES SLAIN

POLICE CAMPAIGN AT WOOSUNG

Shanghai, Jan. 18. Over 50 pirates were killed and 20 captured, while a number jumped overboard and were drowned, as the result of the police anti-buccaneer campaign outside Woosung harbour recently, according to information received to-day from the Third District Kinsu Water Police headquarters at Woosung.

After a lengthy preparation the police steamed outside Woosung and the gunboats launched a fierce attack on the pirates, who had been cruising off Taohikow, north of the Yangtze mouth, preying on small Chinese junks and fishing boats.

Following a battle lasting one hour, the police rounded up twelve pirate junks, sinking four, and capturing eight. The captured pirates are being detained by the police for investigation.—Reuter.

Population Decline

U.S. WILL PASS PEAK IN 1940

Washington, Jan. 17. Mr. Willard C. Smith, of the Census Bureau, has predicted the United States will reach its peak population within the next 15 years to be followed by a decline, unless the birthrate rises or immigration increases.

Only the extremely large number of young people now becoming parents, due to a larger birthrate before the World War, and children born to immigrants before the strict post-war regulations, are causing the population to rise now.

Mr. Smith said indications are that the 1940 census will show America at its peak. He predicted the 1960 census will record the first population decline.

During 1933, Mr. Smith said, the United States' population increased approximately 800,000. Prior to the World War, an increase of 1,800,000 was average.

Mr. Smith pointed to signs of the coming population decline: deserted houses in farming communities where the former occupants have gone to the city, decreased enrolment among the lower grades in school.

The statistician emphasized that this was not an indication of what must happen but simply a projection of present trends into the future. These trends, however, may change at any time.

Already studies made of families on relief and an increase in marriages due to depression postponements indicate at least a passing increase in births may result.

whether our sun is safe from the occurrence of such a catastrophe. No one at present can answer this question, but it is at least true to say that there is no known cause for immediate alarm!

The life history of an individual star is a matter of thousands of millions of years, and the span of human life is so infinitesimally small in comparison that the chances against the explosion occurring in our particular generation are statistically enormous.

The stars in our system are arranged in a flat disc-like structure called the Galaxy. As we are inside the system, and not very far from its centre, we see the greatest number of stars when we look through the thickness of the disc, which thus appears as an encircling belt of faint light, familiar to us as the Milky Way.

Naturally there is a greater chance of a nova appearing in the Milky Way, where there are most stars, and this is actually found to be the general rule. But Mr. Prentice's star, which is in the constellation Hercules, is rather exceptional in being some way from the centre, or even the edge, of the great star-belt. This may be a perspective effect and may mean that it is nearer than the average nova; but in any case it is probably so distant that its light has taken several centuries to reach us.

It may well be that the outburst which caught the eye of the Suffolk astronomer really took place before the Roman legions first set foot in Britain.

France's Huge Airliner

WILL CARRY 70 PASSENGERS

TWO-DECK GIANT

Paris, Jan. 14.

A great flying boat capable of carrying 70 passengers on two decks is undergoing its first trials at Biarritz in the south of France. The plane, which is the biggest ever built in France, is destined for the South American services where the French hope it will assure them supremacy over German and American rivals.

The machine, which will be known as the Lieutenant de Vaisseau Paris, was constructed at the Latécoere factories near Toulouse which are famous for their flying boats. It is so huge that the only way it could be transported to the sea for trials was to dismantle it and ship it by sections in a convoy of trucks. Weighing 32 tons, this plane has a wingspread of 60 meters, and is 32 meters long and nine meters high. Six water-cooled Hispano-Sulza engines of 850 horsepower each will run it at a speed of 230 kilometers an hour at low altitudes and at 250 miles an hour at 2,000 meters. The cruising radius is 4,500 kilometers.

UNABLE TO KNEEL

Neuritis Hampered Her

In writing of the pain and inconvenience she suffered from neuritis, this woman tells also how she rid herself of it—

"I have been using Kruschen Salts for neuritis, and it certainly has the most wonderful effect. My knees were very painful, and it became almost impossible to kneel. As I do all my own housework, you will appreciate what it means to me. Two months ago I began using Kruschen, and I certainly would not be without a bottle in the house for anything. I consider Kruschen is worth its weight in 22-carat gold."—G. M. W.

Neuritis, like rheumatism, lumbago, and sciatica, is caused by deposits of needle-pointed, flint-hard, uric acid crystals, which pierce the nerves and cause those stabbing pains. Kruschen breaks up these deposits of torturing crystals and converts them into a harmless solution, which is promptly removed through the natural channel—the kidneys. And because Kruschen keeps the inside so regular—no free from fermenting waste matter—no such body poisons as uric acid ever get the chance to accumulate again.

NEW JOBS FOR OLD FIREMEN

GUARDING VESSELS OF FRUIT FLEET

New York, Jan. 9.

A new field of usefulness has been opened to retired New York City firemen.

After twenty years of faithful and efficient service retired firemen can now become employees of the United Fruit Company with a rank of Chief Petty Officer.

These firemen become employees with special accommodations on the ships, and wear uniforms denoting their functions. They report directly to the captain of the ship. Their duties are to patrol the ship and guard against fire.—United Press.

Found in Film on teeth... the germs of tooth decay!

Buried beneath an ever-forming film, this invisible enemy attacks enamel and destroys the part beneath. To fight decay, you must remove film every day.

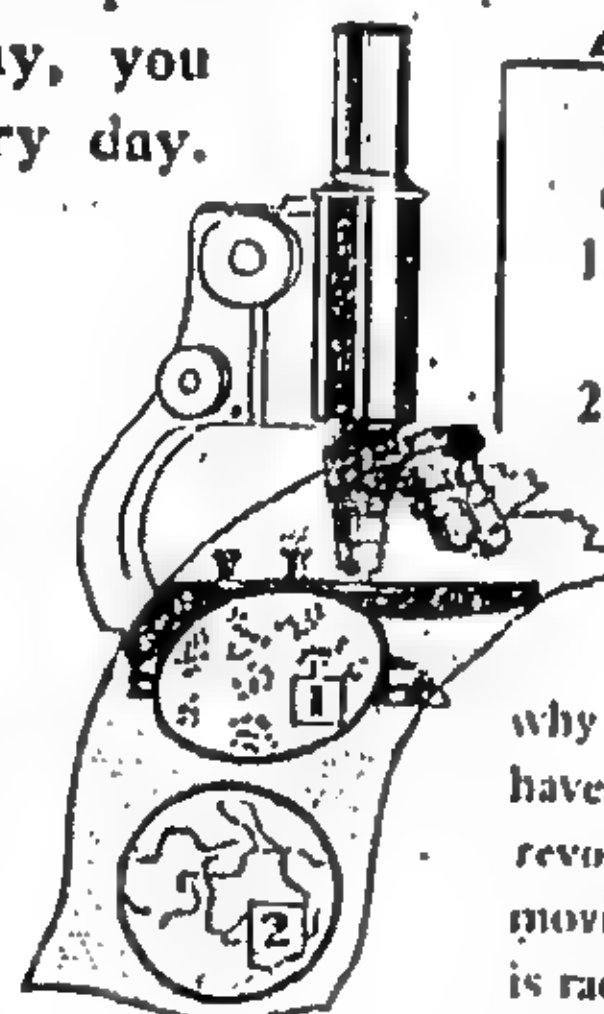

YOU don't need a microscope to pick out film-stained teeth. The naked eye can see them, for film is discolored.

But where the naked eye sees ugliness, the microscope sees danger. Magnify film 1,000 times and you will see living germs of many kinds.

Destroyers of lovely teeth

Lactobacilli are "germs of tooth decay." They feed on particles of food that cling to teeth. They give off acid that dissolves tooth enamel, then devours the part beneath. Finally the nerve is reached.

The film scraped from a single tooth may easily contain millions of living organisms. The only way science accepts of removing germs from teeth is to remove the protective film-coat in which they multiply. Film defies all ordinary ways of brushing. That's why Pepsodent laboratories have developed a new and revolutionary material for removing ugly, stubborn film. It is radically different from any found in other tooth pastes, different in composition and in action.

This is what the scientist finds when he analyzes film on teeth:

2. A species of Streptococci Pyogenes.

Some tooth pastes clean with materials so hard that they scratch enamel. The new material in Pepsodent is soft—twice as soft as the material commonly used in dentifrices. Yet it shows extraordinary power in removing film and giving brilliant polish.

This new cleansing and polishing material is contained in Pepsodent exclusively. Remember that when you are tempted to save money on cheap tooth paste.

ROUSING SOCCER GAMES PROMISED THIS WEEK-END

AS I SEE IT

UNIQUE FEATURE OF HONGKONG SHIELD FOOTBALL

CLUBS WHICH DO NOT BENEFIT BY BEING DRAWN AT HOME

ALTHOUGH there is nothing startling in the draw for the second round of the Senior and Junior Shields, it can, at any rate, be described as interesting. In the Senior competition the Chinese have succeeded in evading one another, so that there is a possibility, in the event of South China "A" finally winning their replay with the Navy, of three Chinese teams appearing in the semi-finals. Re-fraining for the time being from speculating as to the probable results, one is led to consider a peculiar feature of these Shields. Generally speaking the most important factor in such matches is that of being either home or away. This "luck" dominates every consideration when draws are made in England and elsewhere. The advantage of playing at home invariably weighs the balance in favour of that team when it comes to debating prospects of the tie. Yet in Hongkong home ground advantage is practically a negligible factor.

UNIQUE POSITION

ONE has only to glance at the Shield draw to appreciate this. In the Senior Shield, Recreo are drawn first out of the hat, but the game will be played on the Club ground; Police and Kowloon clash, and as a result will both be playing at home. In the Junior Shield, Recreo and Navy will meet on the Club ground, and South China, although first to be drawn, will play the Artillery at Sookunpo. In many respects the position is unique. Take the military teams for instance. Is their home ground Sookunpo, Happy Valley or Chatham Road? The various regional and unit teams share all three, and because of this have but little opportunity to become intimately acquainted with the vagaries of one or the other, and are thereby largely deprived of the so-called "home ground advantage."

THERE ARE DISTINCTIONS

YET there are peculiarities and distinctions between the various football grounds in the Colony which should offer a tremendous advantage to a home team. The Club, Navy and Caroline Hill grounds are probably more similar than any of the other pitches. On the other hand, the Railway Ground has an incline from one touchline to another which could prove very disconcerting to visiting teams. The Military ground at Happy Valley has confinement of area as a big disadvantage to visitors, and the Chatham Road ground roughness of surface. The Recreo pitch is another which could easily be used to the wide open spaces of Caroline Hill, Club or Navy arena. Yet we find teams drawn at home unable to take advantage of these conditions. Hongkong must surely be one of the few places where football is played in which earning the coveted distinction of being "first out of the hat" means practically nothing at all. Here a

SOUTH CHINA & SERVICES COMBINE TO AID CHARITIES

UNHAPPY CLASH OF FIXTURES

AS to the likely outcome of the shield ties on Saturday week, it calls for but passing comment. In the Senior competition I expect Recreo, Police, South China "B" and Navy or South China "A" to reach the semi-finals. The last four in the Junior Shield are expected to be Navy, East Lancashire, R.A.S.C., and South China. The only other thing worth noting at the present is that the games are being played a day before the Interport trial. This is regrettable, as they may result in Interport nominees receiving injuries. Personally I would like to see postponed for the next fortnight, all local league and shield games in which the Interport candidates are due to appear. I know it sounds impracticable, and probably it is, but if Hongkong is to regain the Interport laurels lost last year, then no risks should be taken. We not only want to turn out our best eleven players, but our fittest, and with a full programme of Shield ties on the 26th, a trial the following day, and league matches the next week-end, there is a rattling good chance of finding several of the Colony's best players crocked when Interport day arrives.

THE KOTEWALL CUP

THE history of co-operative efforts between Chinese and the Services football teams on behalf of local charities is not very long. In fact it can pretty well be traced to the time the South Wales Borderers were here. Certainly this co-operative effort was more stimulated during their time, than at any other. Now these sports bodies have advanced to a stage when they have felt the desirability of organising a definite annual competition, confined to the Navy, Army and South China Athletic Association. Last week the project received the fatherly (and at the same time official) blessing of the Football Association. One can sympathise to a large extent with those members of the Council who considered it was inappropriate to adorn our congested football season with another trophy competition. On the other hand the mere call of charity is always difficult to ignore, and generally speaking I think everybody is happy to know that the Services and South China are to be encouraged in their efforts to assist local institutions.

NOT AN ATTEMPT TO COMPETE

SO far as its locus standi among the Colony's football competitions is concerned, the Kotewall Cup is unlikely to attain the same eminence as that of the Sunday Herald Charity Cup. And possibly that is as well. The object of such competitions is not to vie one with the other as attractive propositions for cup hunters, but to stimulate public interest in the charitable needs of the Colony. For this reason the Army, Navy and South China deserve thanks for their efforts in this direction, and appreciation is due to Mr. Kotewall for his manner of encouraging these bodies.

Club's Hockey Win Over Navy

LOSERS' WEAK FORWARDS

By R.H.B.

The Navy completed their fixtures in the Triangular Tournament yesterday when they were defeated by the Club by three goals to one on the Navy ground at King's Park.

The game was void of any brilliant play, and if Arthur Lay had been more accurate with his shots when in front of the Navy goal, the score might easily have been greater in the Club's favour.

The Navy forward line, led by Curry, gave a sorry display. Lastcelles, who returned to inside-left, was inclined to do too much defensive work instead of attack and was found wanting on many occasions when the Navy penetrated the Club defence.

The Club obtained their first goal through G. E. R. Divett. Curry, who was out of place for the Manager of our team to call out the probable players and reserves for as much practice as possible during spare evenings.

PLAY DESCRIBED

In the first half, the Navy attacked early. Curry went through but E. V. Reed cleared in time to concede a corner. The Club retaliated, Mackay putting in good work on the left wing. Their first goal came through G. E. R. Divett who netted with a good ground shot that had Barnes well beaten. The Navy returned to the opponents' goal where a good pass by Howie, on the right wing, was wasted through "sloke" against Curry when well placed.

Mackay was again to the fore with a spectacular run down the wing, passed in but Tetley was too slow and was robbed of possession.

Just before the interval, the Navy equalised through Curry, from a pass from Howie.

CORRESPONDENCE

ANOTHER SUGGESTED INTERPORT TEAM

Sports Editor,
Hongkong Telegraph.

Sir,—"Cinch" in your yesterday's issue, put forward a rather good suggestion, to represent Hongkong against Shanghai in the forthcoming Interport Football Match, but I think the following is an improvement, though slight, on his eleven—Wong Wing; Li Tin Sang, A. V. Gossano; Leung Wing Chiu, Pardoe, and Parker; B. Gossano or Tao Kwai Shing; Tam Kong Pak, Higgins, Ridley, Bickford or Ip Pak Wa.

In view of the near approach of Chinese New Year, it would not be out of place for the Manager of our team to call out the probable players and reserves for as much practice as possible during spare evenings.

UNDIAB.

ANSWER TO CORRESPONDENT

"Asleep"—Many thanks for your eulogistic letter. Letter not published owing to innate modesty (says the office boy), but points noted. The outcome of Sunday's trial will probably make them worthy of comment next week—"VERITAS."

SOUTH CHINA'S RECORD IN DANGER

CLUB HIGHLY OPTIMISTIC; BUT WHAT OF RECREIO?

(By "Veritas")

After their close call last week, and the fact that past records show the Club have a penchant for beating them, South China "A" might well be excused if they regarded to-day's match against the Club with some anxiety.

Going through a season with an unbroken record is all very well, but it has the unfortunate effect of creating responsibility. Supporters become so used to seeing the team win that they cannot bear the thought of a defeat; hence the players have to be keyed up every game in order to keep the record intact. And although South China "A" are well deserving of the distinction which is now theirs, it cannot be said they have had "cake-walks" in all league games to date. Even as far back as last November they were taken all the way by Chinese Athletic; last week they morally lost; will the Club repeat history and again become one of the few teams to lower South China's proud colours?

"SIX NIL"

Between you, me, and South China, the Club think they will, in fact one optimist (and a good footballer at that) whispered "six nil", but that seems to be tempting the gods a bit too much. All the same, the Blue and Whites have made a couple of changes in the team, which may mean a lot of difference.

Desmond Hynes has sunk his pro-second team feelings, and is turning out for the seniors, taking over Tavlin's position at right half. At least I can't see the Club halfback line being weakened by this move, and if Hynes plays as well to-day as he did for the reserves against the University a fortnight ago, he will become a fixture in the team.

Welcome back to Hill, former Kowloon forward and back, and last season's Club inside right. He turns out to-day vice Brown, and if his somewhat long absence from active participation in football has not made him too stiff, he ought to prove an acquisition to the Club.

S. CHINA AT FULL STRENGTH

Otherwise the team is as usual. Syd. Strange, though still limping, will be on view as usual, also George Rodger. Incidentally this will be Ernest Strange's last game for the Club this season. Perhaps that is what the enthusiast meant when he suggested six-nil!

It is nice to know Lee Kwok-wai's injury last week was not serious. He will appear this afternoon, and if South China turn out as advertised they will be at full strength. Methinks Tam Kong-pak will be all out to disprove the impression that he is not good enough for the Interport team. That means an energetic afternoon for Andy Duncan and Strange. Still they have the consolation of knowing they will be warmer than the spectators.

Frankly I don't expect to see South China lose. All the same that mention of six-nil makes me think. Over the other side of the harbour, Kowloon will endeavour to prove that they can play better football than the Police. Good luck to them, but please Jones returns, I don't favour their chances. On the other hand the Police will go a long way towards ensuring themselves of two points if they forget how good they were against South China, and remember only how many goals were missed!

TO MORROW'S MATCHES

And to-morrow we have the Recreo, the team of parts (but very good parts) at Caroline Hill, there to put South China "A" through their paces. The Portuguese have always impressed me more against Chinese teams than when opposed to Europeans, which is why I expect to see them send the Caroline Hillites all the way. Maybe the Club's match to-day will lay the foundation for a Recreo victory. In any case it ought to be a great match.

When the Navy turning out a more regular team, these days, there is a coincident improvement in their play, and because of this, and the fact St. Joseph's will be on a strange ground, I expect the nauticals to win to-morrow.

When they drew with South China "A" in the Senior Shield the Navy played well enough to beat any team in the Colony. It only needs a repetition of such form to bring home two points to-morrow.

Here is the week-end programme, and some of the teams:

The game was fast and at half time the R.A. were leading by two goals to one. The Medway made a good effort to even the score but the better team work and faster play of the battery allowed them to increase their lead by two goals. The teams were:—

R.A.: Major McIntyre; Jemadar Anrick Singh, Tara Singh; Tara Singh, Ahmed Khan, Khuda Bux; Chajn Singh, Tooz Khan, Amar Singh, Kisham Singh, Bakhtawar Singh.

Medway:—Lt. Jackson; Lt. Com. Browning, Lt. Com. Gush; Lt. Aledy, Lt. Com. Broome, Lt. Com. Banks; Lt. Ford, Sub-Lt. Knox, Lt. Massey-Dawson, Lt. Cheyne, Lt. Forbes.

The teams will be as follows: Colony:—Mrs. R. Rose; Miss E. M. Gray and Miss F. K. Walker; Miss B. M. Pope, Miss S. Wong and Mrs. M. L. W. Bryson; Miss P. Knill, Miss M. Smith, Miss M. Wootley, Miss S. Daisiel and Miss M. Remedios.

The opposition for the Colony team is the same that was provided in the practice game at Sookunpo last Thursday afternoon.

Duncan; Fowler, Hill, Howe, E. Strange, and Blewett; Rycroft and Navy:—Repper; Rycroft and West; Pymt, McGuire, and Love; Kiley, Gilbert, Cannell, Wearmouth and Skinner.

AMERICA DESPONDENT ABOUT DAVIS CUP

PLAYED DIRTY TRICK

MAGISTRATE ADMONISHES
POLICE INFORMER

Satisfied that the story of the defendant was true and remarking he had been the victim of a very dirty trick, Mr. E. I. Wynne-Jones at the Central Police Court yesterday afternoon discharged Li Hung, a firewood cutter, who denied a charge of the possession of three forged ten dollar notes of the Chartered Bank of India, Australia and China.

With Li Hung in the dock also stood Pat Shiu-wai and Man Tung, both of whom were stated to be Police informers.

Li Hung, in the witness box, declared that the money was given to him by Pat Shiu-wai on leaving the Ko Shing Theatre to keep for him for a short while, and in Hollywood Road near the junction of Sai Street, he (Li Hung) was searched by a detective. At the time of the search, Pat Shiu-wai made off into a firewood shop.

Pat Shiu-wai, who pleaded guilty to the charge of possession of the notes, was sentenced to six months' hard labour.

"You have also been a party to a very dirty trick. I think it is men like you that are very serious dangers to the community," remarked the magistrate.

"I have been asked by the detective to get him paces," stated Pat Shiu-wai.

Addressing the detective, Yiu Lok (P. C. 5511), the magistrate remarked: How long have you been in the detective office?

"Two or three weeks," was the reply.

Mr. Wynne-Jones: My own opinion is the sooner you get out of it the better. Detectives who use this method of getting cases are a very serious danger. (To Sergeant Clarke) I hope you will bring my remarks to the notice of the proper authorities.

Man Tung was discharged, as it was admitted by the Police that the evidence against him was mere hearsay.

How Case Arose

Detective-sergeant Clarke narrated to the Court that at 6.30 p.m. on January 8 when the detective got home to his house at Queen's Road, his wife gave him a note signed by Man Tung, his informer, telling him to proceed to No. 487 Queen's Road West, first floor. He went there and then went to No. 2 or 3 Yu On Terrace, in West Point. Man Tung told the detective to wait for

PARTY POLITICS

COALITION MOOTED
IN JAPAN

Tokyo, Jan. 18. Political circles are hurried over the official announcement of the leaders of the three political parties that they have accepted Premier Okada's invitation to meet him in conference on January 19.

On January 17, Premier Okada saw Mr. Machida, leader of the Minseitō Party, and Mr. Adachi, leader of the Kokumintō-Domei, when he asked for their cooperation in pulling through the national emergency.

Mr. Suzuki, leader of the Seiyūkai Party, at first declined the Premier's invitation; but later reconsidered and accepted it. Political observers attach much importance to to-morrow's conference, notwithstanding the Seiyūkai Party's assertion to the contrary. —Reuter.

a while for the second informer.

The detective waited till 7.45 p.m. when Man Tung returned with three other men one of whom was Pat Shiu-wai. They sat and talked and the detective was told that the man with the forged bank notes was at the Ko Shing Theatre.

Pat Shiu-wai and Man Tung went into the Theatre to fetch the man out. Man Tung came out and joined the detective. In Hollywood Road, they noticed Pat Shiu-wai with the third defendant (Li Hung) walking about fifteen paces ahead of them.

At the junction of Sai Street and Hollywood Road, the detective saw Li Hung standing there and Pat Shiu-wai was just starting to run up Sai Street. Li Hung when searched told the detective that the notes were given to him by Pat Shiu-wai, who could not be found then.

The following morning the detective went to Man Tung's house and there found Man Tung and Pat Shiu-wai.

According to his statement, Pat Shiu-wai told the Police that Man Tung gave the notes to another man who in turn gave them to him (Pat Shiu-wai). There was no direct evidence against Man Tung.

After this evidence, Lam Pui, accountant of the Cheung Ki money-changer's shop, of 22 years' experience, deposed to the notes being forged.

The Magistrate then gave his verdict, as stated.

SEASON'S RESULTS NOT ENCOURAGING

NEW OPPORTUNITY OFFERED TO YOUNG PLAYERS

BAD YEAR SAVED BY LADIES

New York.

About all America salvaged from the men's tennis wreckage in 1934 was the national doubles championship annexed by George M. Lott and Les Stofeen. America's face was saved by the women players, who won the Wightman Cup matches, and whose leader, Helen Hull Jacobs, captured the U. S. title for the third time, and teamed with Sarah Palfrey to account for the doubles diadem.

The sombre hue of the men's picture was due to the failure of the Davis Cup team, and the inability of any American player to cope with Frederick J. Perry, the dashing Briton, in the U. S. singles. The lack of success of the Davis Cup saved will give youngsters an opportunity in 1935, but prospects scarcely can be considered rosy.

At the beginning of the past year, many suspected that the cup array had the best chance in several years of wresting the trophy from foreign hands. It was bolstered by younger blood in the person of Les Stofeen and added by Dick Williams, former cup star, as coach.

Naturally, enthusiasm was even higher when the team hurried Australia in a close inter-zone match, after trailing, 2-1.

Sidney D. Wood, Jr., required two days to repel Jack Crawford, rain interrupting their five-set engagement.

Francis X. Shields won the decisive singles match by turning back Vivian McGrath, the two handed racket wielder.

CAPTURE DOUBLES ONLY

America started the challenge round against England just as it did against Australia. Shields lost to Bunny Austin, and Wood to Perry, before Lott and Stofeen captured the doubles.

It was too much to expect the Yankees to come from behind when opposed to Perry & Co. after their trying session with the Australians, however. Perry and Austin again clinched the mug when the former beat Shields in a four-set thriller, the last one going 15-13, and Wood trailed Austin in the same number of sets.

America's hope to take the U. S. singles crown from Perry rested in Shields and Wood, but it remained for Wilmer Allison, the Texan ignored by the Davis Cup selection committee, to wage the fight.

Allison advanced to the final by downing Stofeen and Wood, only to lose a heart-breaking four-set match to Perry.

Lott and Stofeen acquired the leadership in the doubles by turning back Allison and Johnny Van Ryn in Philadelphia.

Little Sarah Palfrey was the star of the Wightman Cup matches. Stopping in when Alice Marble, the San Francisco exponent who was viewed as one of the squad's mainstays, became ill, Miss Palfrey defeated the highly regarded Peggy Serven in the fifth and deciding match.

The Brookline miss also turned in a decision over Dorothy Round, England's No. 1 player and women's singles winner at Wimbledon, so her two victories just about won for this country.

CAROLIN BABCOCK SHINES

Miss Jacobs had to defeat Palfrey before she again became the U.S. women's singles champion. The pair then teamed to take the doubles title by defeating Mrs. Dorothy Andrus, of Stamford, Conn., and Carolyn Babcock. The Misses Babcock and Marble played some phenomenal tennis during the year. Miss Babcock became so important at Sanbright in July that she upset Miss Jacobs in straight sets.

America got nowhere in the Wimbledon men's singles, which were won by Perry, who defeated the defending champion, Crawford. Lott and Stofeen won the doubles.

Three hopefuls were developed for 1935 among the youngsters. These were Frankie Parker, Lawrenceville Academy youth, and Don Budge and Gene Mako, west coast talent.

These three figures loom with greater importance since Lott and Stofeen deserted the amateur ranks for professional careers. Out of this trio probably will come one singles player for the Davis Cup squad of 1935, and probably one member of the doubles team.

All three have been national junior titlists, and made excellent showings on the big time in 1934.

CLUB'S HOCKEY WIN

In the second half, the Club forwards settled down and Lay was seen to advantage. After missing the mark with at least three shots, Lay scored two goals in rapid succession, the second being a good reverse stick effort. Shortly after, a good pass from Owen Hughes went begging.

Towards the end, the Navy attacked. Alexander Sinclair sending in a shot that Gregory cleared. Owen Hughes had the misfortune to be struck by the ball from a hit by Phillips and was seen to limp from the field when the final whistle sounded.

The teams were:
Club: C. L. Gregory; J. Rodger and E. V. Reed; J. E. Potter, W. A. Reed and G. Sommers; H. Owen Hughes, G. E. R. Divett, A. T. Lay, J. L. Tetley and N. A. E. Mackey.

A NAVAL OCCASION

H.M.S. SUFFOLK'S DANCE MUCH ENJOYED.

A dance that was described by parting guests as "the best yet on the China Station" was held on Thursday night, on board H.M.S. Suffolk. Many who had braved the rather cold journey from the shore were glad to find glowing braziers, and warm decorative schemes, on the sheltered upper deck. Coloured lights led one to get rid of cloak or coat, and proceeding independently after that there seemed to be a refreshment bar in every direction one could turn. Further, certain little trolleys were unexpectedly encountered round corners with attendant "spirits."

A roll of drums announced the opening dance numbers, and the happy-satisfying music of the "Maiden's Dance" Band of H.M.S. Suffolk was broadcast from their gallery on the quarter deck to the supper tables in the waist of the ship, where a masterly display of delicate and dainty things pleased the eye and then the palate.

Rather later in the evening another roll of drums announced two dancers (was it from Volkmars?) who executed a pretty piece of step-rhythm: it is believed these were recruited from the ship's concert party. And as they quitted the stage there appeared, and was vociferously hailed, a fine specimen of the "Suffolk Punch," that noble animal, who also was musically inclined this evening.

A bridge room was set apart for those who would take their pleasure more seriously. The supper tables were supplied and most tastefully decorated by Mr. Plovancill of the Hongkong Hotel, and Mr. Wilkinson of Lane Crawfords. And the floral decorations, which seemed to delight the most expert of connoisseurs amongst the ladies, were arranged by Poo Kee.

Among those present were Admiral Sir Frederic C. Droyer, Major General O. C. and Mrs. Borrett, Lady Peel and Miss Redhead, the Hon. Mr. E. and Mrs. Taylor, His Honour Mr. Justice and Mrs. MacGregor, Commodore and Mrs. Elliott, the Hon. Sir W. E. L. Shenton and Miss Shenton, Commodore Attwood, Captain and Mrs. Tower, Captain Bent, Captain Hammick, Captain Law, Captain Coltart, Engineer Captain Simpson, Colonel Marsh, and Colonel Morris.—Contributed.

SERIAL STORY—

Lovable

By MARY RAYMOND

BEGIN HERE TO-DAY

ANN HOLMSTEDT, pretty and 20, broke her engagement to TONY MCKINLEY, former chieftain, because of his drinking and general irresponsibility. The same day PETER KENDALL, wealthy and prominent, learns how VALERIA HENRIETTE, his fiancée, has deceived him, and tells her everything is over between them.

Ann and Peter, both heart-broken and disillusioned, meet in a restaurant. When Peter asks her to marry him, Ann agrees.

They are married that night and set out for Florida. They spend several weeks there happily until Peter is called home again because of business. All of the Kendall family except Peter's sister, MILLICENT, and Ann, Millie's friend, decide to give a dance to introduce Ann to society. Ann learns that Valeria will be among the guests.

CHAPTER XIX

Ann said, "Yes, Valeria's invited. She heard about the party and told Millie that she hoped she wouldn't be excluded. Valeria said she wouldn't be. Friends, Millie thought there was nothing to do but ask her."

"So that's it?" Sarah breathed.

"She can't fight better close to you, and with less danger of discovery. Ann, dear, can't you see what's before your very nose?"

"I certainly can. Which reminds me it needs powdering." Ann turned toward the bedroom and Sarah followed.

When the door was closed Ann handed Sarah the package she had been holding. Sarah lifted out one tissue wrapping and lifted out another. When she came to the beautiful ivory satin negligee tears gathered in her eyes.

"Ann, I can't bear it. Getting all these lovely things for my treasure when you've been so unhappy."

"No, I wasn't unhappy—that is, not terribly unhappy. Sarah, Peter has been wonderful. It's just that I feel I'm living in a sort of dream. Of course, her voice broke, "I had planned everything differently. I had always expected to have a real honeymoon, not a make-believe one. To spend it with someone who really loved me and someone—"

She did not finish, but began powdering her nose furiously. She had been about to say, "and someone I love." But loyalty to Peter silenced her.

Sarah said, meeting Ann's eyes in the mirror, "you might as well tell all, darling. You won't be seeing me every day now."

"Peter's wonderful, Sarah. The best friend I ever had."

"Friend! Who wants a friendly husband?"

"He took a huge apartment and has servants all over the place. Sometimes I think I would be a happier if I had work to do—like Peter."

Lonely, thought Sarah. She's terribly lonely. That's bad—for Peter.

Aloud, she said, "I hope you'll keep your eyes open. I let Valeria Bennett will. And I have an idea the family would rather have her with all her money, than a rank interloper. It's the inherent snobbishness of people whose families have always known each other. Your ancestors may have come over in the Mayflower. Ann, but it wouldn't make any difference to the Kendalls unless they were on the same boat. I wish old Peter was on your side. He would be a whole regiment for you."

"He's refused to see me. There's nothing I can do."

"There is another side to Mrs. Kendall's attitude," Sarah said.

"Peter is the only one who knew her child. I suppose you when that Peter was only three."

"I was born within two years and several years later the twins came—Carol and Don."

"Yes, I know," Ann said. "Peter told me the family history. He seems very fond of them, particularly Carol."

"I can't say I admire Peter's taste. Everybody thinks she's an awful snob."

"Peter thinks she is misunderstood, and kicking against the traces makes her seem arrogant and hard. He says she's really the finest of them all."

"When the party?"

"Thursday night. You and Mac must be sure to come."

"Mac in full dress?" Sarah smiled.

"I'll threaten him with that."

"But you will come. Send me one of those awfully invitations though. I want to frame it. Imagine being invited to a party given by a Kendall! You never can tell what will happen in this world."

Ann laughed. "I feel the same way," she confessed. "I wake up sometimes at night and turn on the light and look at the magnificent. I want to pinch myself to see if it's true."

Sarah told Mac, when they were alone together, that she felt in her bones something would happen at Millie's dance.

"And I'm betting on Ann," she said. "She's clever and spirited. She'll give the Kendalls a run for their money and outwit Valeria Bennett too."

"That is," Sarah said slowly. "If Ann puts her heart in the fight."

She had just remembered that Ann had not mentioned Tony. It wasn't a good sign.

As for Tony—if he started making trouble for Ann, Sarah told herself, she'd shoot him. The child had troubles enough without Tony stepping in and complicating things further.

Ann was reading the note that had come in the morning mail. Tony's note.

The maid had brought the mail to the breakfast room, handing the tray to Peter. He had gathered Ann's mail, mostly invitations, into a stack and handed it to her—not missing the one envelope addressed in a masculine hand.

Ann's heart missed a beat as she opened Tony's note. "Belated congratulations," she said, adding bravely, "from Tony."

She did not hand the letter to Peter and he did not ask to see it. It read: "No late supper, no early morning rides in old cars and taxis, no nothing. I can't say or congratulate you, Ann, but you deserve it for being so damned jealous. When you're fed up, give me a ring. I'll be waiting. Tony."

advance reports, attains one of the highest points in gripping emotional drama—seen on the screen since "Bad Girl". In addition, the role of the producer suffices to bring Walter Connolly to the recognition of the screen—a fame he has enjoyed on the stage for two decades. Some of Connolly's recent roles include "20th Century", "It Happened One Night", "Lady for a Day", and "The Bitter Tea of General Yen". Doris Kenyon appears as his wife with Robert Young cast as their son. Others in the supporting cast are Jack Mulhall, Hobart Bosworth, Marion Jones, Scott Beckett, Mabel Turner, Holla Lloyd and Akim Tamiroff.

"The Thin Man"

If you enjoy sitting on the edge of your chair, and if you enjoy being left completely in the dark while trying to solve a most baffling murder mystery, don't fail to see the new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture "The Thin Man" showing at the Oriental Theatre on Sunday, Monday and Tuesday. Alexander Woolcott described "The Thin Man" to be the best detective story ever written by any author, and Sinclair Lewis described it as the most breathless of all of Dashiell Hammett's stories. "The Thin Man" is the story of Nick Charles, an ex-detective who is Sherlock Holmes, S.S. Van Dine and all other crack detectives rolled into one. It tells of three murders which involved Charles, against his will, with the unusual Wyndham family. His method of solving the crimes provides one of the most exciting and unusual climaxes of all detective pictures.

"Crime Without Passion"

Proving once again that you "can't get away with it," Paramount's "Crime Without Passion," the Ben Hecht-Charles MacArthur picture featuring Claude Rains, Margo and Whitney Bourne and opening to-day at the Queen's Theatre again explodes the fallacy of the perfect crime and points out that even the cleverest criminal must slip up in his plans somewhere and thus become the clutches of the law. Written and directed by Hecht and MacArthur, "Crime Without Passion" is the story of the cleverest criminal lawyer in New York who forgets his role as defender of criminals and becomes a murderer himself, and who bungles his crime. Claude Rains plays the role of the lawyer who makes elaborate plans to cover the supposed murder of Ann opened another envelope. Out fell a clipping, with one paragraph boldly red-pencilled: "Wonder if a certain man-about-town's hasty marriage was the result of a fit of pique, and if the redhead with whom he anked down the aisle will be able to disprove the old saying that gentlemen prefer blondes. We wonder."

"Mind if I see that, Ann?"

He read the clipping, his face white. "When I got my hands on the man who wrote this—what a dirty trick!" His eyes were blazing. Ann broke in breathlessly. "Oh, Peter, you wouldn't. Nobody pays any attention to 'High-Life'."

"But everybody reads it," Peter said grimly.

"Peter, I couldn't bear it if you did anything about it. Everybody would be talking then."

"Give up your right," Peter said. He crumpled the clipping in his hand. "Sure you won't let it upset you?"

"I won't give it another thought," Ann said. "Unless you need your car, why don't you let Evans drive you down? I'll pick you up this afternoon."

"I thought you'd be busy getting ready for the party. Hugging a dress."

"It's bought and waiting."

Peter was standing by her chair, smiling down at her. Ann, in her simply tailored brown jersey with the starched white collar and cuffs, made a pretty picture. She never appeared at breakfast in negligees, but was always dressed in some simple, attractive morning frock like this. Once when he had remonstrated with her, Ann had said, "You always dress for breakfast. Why shouldn't I?"

"It's different with me," he said. "I'm on my way to work."

Yet, he realized he liked seeing Ann dressed for breakfast, fresh as a rose, her bronze hair tucked in a small soft knot at the back of her head.

"Well, I'm off," he said. "I won't take the car. You're spoiling me, Ann."

On the way to the office he thought about the way Ann had pretended to ignore the covert thrust in the scandal sheet. He'd stake his life that she was the squarer, fairest—she caught himself up. No use in putting Ann on a pedestal.

She was playing the game squarely, of course. She had been wonderful on the trip. It had been memorable in many ways. Getting up early, with the mist still thick on the lake. Swimming with her those last warm days before they left. He had never seen anyone as thrilled over things. Ann was just a kid. A damned sweet kid.

It occurred to him that the note Ann had received was perhaps more disturbing to her than the clipping. His mouth set in grim lines at the thought. And then he almost laughed at the sheer absurdity of his feeling.

He had married Ann because they were in love, and because both of them were hoping to forget. Forgetting this chap was Ann's business, just as forgetting Valeria was his. Was he forgetting her? Peter honestly didn't know.

his former sweetheart. It is only after a slip-up in his plans forces him to commit an actual murder that he learns that his sweetheart is alive and only slightly injured, and that he, himself, is the actual victim of his perfect crime. Produced by Hecht-MacArthur at the Astoria, New York studios as one of the four new pictures, "Crime Without Passion" employed the resources of one of the most remarkable technical staffs.

"That's A Good Girl"

Recently returned from New York to London after a successful stage appearance in the American metropolis, Jack Buchanan re-entered the studios of the British and Dominion Film Corporation and played in "That's A Good Girl" now showing at the King's Theatre. His leading lady is none other than Elsie Randolph who was his opposite player in many of his London stage successes, also appearing with him in the highly successful "Yes, Mr. Brown". In the current vehicle, this popular theatre have made-to-order roles, introducing several hilarious eccentric dances, and innumerable illing songs. Among the stars in the cast are Vera Pearce, Gerry Marsh, Kate Outler, Dorothy Hyson, William Kendall and Frank Stanmore. A highlight of the hilarious production is the opera sequence where Buchanan, to avoid his creditors, steps on the stage where he takes a leading part in the macabre chorus, and immediately acts the "imbecile". The unanimous acclaim of the London press indicates that this is the best British musical-comedy to be screened in Hongkong. The Daily Mirror reviewer points out that the not only achieved a great personal success but was mobbed by a crowd of fans. The film itself is an outstanding success. Frequent bursts of applause—a most unusual thing at a film's first night—greeted several of the richly humorous comedy situations. It contains all the good points of the stage show plus the slap stick comedy situations made possible by the cinema camera. Jack Buchanan is at his best.

"Return of the Terror"

Actors find themselves playing strange and unusual parts in motion pictures, all the way from invisible men to off-stage shouts, but probably no actor has had a more fantastic assignment this season than Al Stewart. Al Stewart is the man behind the "Skeleton in the First National production, "Return of the Appointed Warrant Officer Class 1, he was promoted to Bandmaster and joined the 2nd Battalion, Royal Welch Fusiliers on June 7, 1932, joining the battalion at Gibraltar in August of that year.

Popular among the officers and men, the late Mr. Burnett was also a good all-round sportsman being prominent in swimming, water polo and at football. His passing is generally regretted.

ANTI-GAS MEASURES

I.T. ROBERTSON APPOINTED TO NEW VOLUNTEER SERVICE

In the current H. K. Volunteer Defence Corps orders it is interesting to note that Lieutenant C. de Salle Robertson, M.M., has been appointed Officer-in-Charge of Anti-Gas Measures, in addition to his other duties.

The appointment of Lieutenant Robertson to this new branch of the Volunteer service is appropriate, for, apart from specialising in this branch in France during the Great War, he has recently given lectures to various Hongkong units.

CARTER CATCHES MARKED BULLET

STARTLING TRICK TO BE SEEN

One of the sensational stunts that Carter the Great, who will appear with his company for seven nights and two matinees at the King's Theatre, commencing on Wednesday, will try to put over, is one wherein he essays to catch a marked bullet.

He has perfected the trick to such a degree that he permits one of his assistants not only to catch the bullet, but who apparently suffers the marked bullet to penetrate his abdomen and is then caught by Carter on a platter behind the subject! To heighten the effect, a ribbon of scarlet hue is riveted to the bullet, which bullet is marked by auditors and the course of the bullet is graphically described by the ribbon entering the girl assistant's torso and afterwards played back and forth through the body by those in the audience who are courageous enough to make the trial; the ribbon is then severed from the bullet and the subject laughingly exists.

This is a particularly dangerous trick—or, it has proved such in numerous instances. Ching Ling-sun was killed in London by a mistake of an assistant in using a real rifle that clogged the mechanism which helped work the trick successfully.

FIRE SWEEPS BARRACKS

JAPANESE LOSS AT CHINCHOW

Chinchow, Jan. 18. A fire which broke out in a local Japanese military barracks yesterday, spread over a wide area and gutted over 100 houses before it could be brought under control.
